

AFTERNOON
..... TEA .....

---

..... A TIMELESS CLASSIC .....

The tradition of Afternoon Tea is rumoured to have begun in the mid-1800s, when the seventh Duchess of Bedford complained of being hungry between meals. Around 4pm each day the Duchess began to order a tray of tea, bread and butter, and cake to tide her over until dinner. This splendid idea very quickly became a social event for aristocratic families, a favourite pastime and the perfect excuse to spend time with friends.

Where better to indulge in a slice of the finest British tradition and enjoy Afternoon Tea than at Dalmahoy, affectionately known as Edinburgh's Country Estate.

Enjoy finely cut sandwiches together with freshly baked scones served with clotted cream and strawberry preserve, followed by a delectable selection of cakes. There are also many different types of tea to choose from.
